A Message from Mayor Amy Wilczynski. . .

Despite all the rain, I think we can say Spring is finally here. The lake is almost filled, and the fields are groomed. Opening day for the ball fields is around the corner and people are already picnicking at the red barn.

During the last few months, we have had more rain than was ever recorded in the history of NJ. With rain comes flooding. Many residents have reached out about flooding problems in their basements and yards that they've never experienced before. I have the same issue. I would like to encourage all residents who happen to have swales or culverts in their backyards to make sure they are cleared of debris. Also please clear any storm drains that may be clogged, this will help the water flow tremendously. We have been clearing out storm drains all over the Borough, but the volume has been tremendous so it's been an uphill battle.

We had the first of a series of town halls last month, we discussed the goals and strategy of the Borough. Residents had the opportunity to mingle with the council and myself and ask questions in a relaxed and casual setting. We had a great turnout, and we look forward to the next one on May 14th. The topic will be the Fair Share Housing Plight. On March 20th, the Governor signed new legislation that dramatically modifies the state's affordable housing regulations. All municipalities are given onerous numbers that are impossible to meet which means we will be required to submit a vacant land analysis to essentially rezone every parcel of land into high-density housing. Our suburban towns will look like cities within the next decade. We are planning now and forming a team to handle this, but all residents need to inform themselves on this very important issue.

Finally, we have been working very hard on the municipal budget. I'd like to thank the finance committee, Councilwoman Lovisolo and Councilwoman Homan as well as our CFO Alison Altano for all the time reviewing each line item over the past 5 months. The municipal portion of the budget will have a zero increase. When the schools and county come in with their numbers, we anticipate about a 1% total increase which will amount to $40 per household. Our auditor will be coming to the May 9th Mayor and Council meeting to review the numbers and answer any questions. We will also be sending out a budget newsletter.

Finally, the mural project is moving along nicely. The 3 schools have done an amazing job so far. It's wonderful to see the schools become a part of Allendale History. We are still fundraising, be on the lookout for upcoming events, or click on the link HERE!

When we think about community libraries, we often think about books and buildings. However, invisible to most patrons are the tireless volunteers who help to file the books, clean the floors, and do whatever is necessary to make sure the library is ready to serve the community. Allendale's first library began in December 1900 with the help of 600 books, private donations, and a small group of volunteers to organize and distribute these initial offerings to Allendale residents and summer visitors.

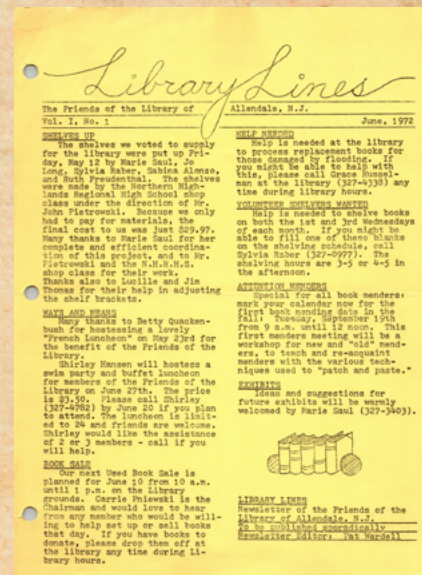

In 1926, the volunteers of Allendale Library Association raised funds to build the first permanent home for the Allendale Public Library on the corner of Franklin Turnpike and West Allendale Avenue. In 1931, Eugenia L. Buechner created a plaque that recognizes the library trustees and donors that volunteered their time, skills, and money to bring the new library building to life.

For many years, Allendale residents William and Mary Lee were the backbone of the Allendale Public Library. 1952 was a turning point for the library as William Lee died that summer. In recognition of his many contributions, the library was renamed Lee Memorial Library. Soon after, Mary Lee announced her retirement as its long serving librarian. Requiring new leadership and funding, the Borough of Allendale was asked to take over the library. After a successful referendum, on January 6, 1953, the privately operated public library became the Allendale FREE Public Library. It was now 100% owned and operated by the Borough of Allendale. Hilda Sprague became the library's first paid librarian (part-time). Following World War II, as the demand for books grew, more staff was needed. Volunteers to the rescue!

In May 1971, library volunteers met in the home of Mrs. Samuel Raber to discuss how the library could also serve as a cultural center for the community. These volunteers worked alongside library staff to ease their workload. Before adjourning their meeting, they voted to organize and call themselves "Friends of the Library."
